The Day’s Work

By Maurizio Lazzarato

I. Deterritorialisation – Voice, Phone or Radio

I actually commence my day by working on a project on the computer and write a paragraph by the light.

II. The Radio

It means there is a voice, Sirohi, on the radio – enouncing some news as always.

III. Economic Materialism

In fact there is just a line which is a lower line which has a line which is an upper line.

Sometimes they articulate this way.

The rest I call experience, the labour-production process of general strike currently in Europe, Cuba, Algeria and where we stay, India.
